Dear Chief Trayo:

I'm coming to you speechless for only the Lord knows the weight of your sorrow. I grieve for the families, who fill the space these men left in all their lives.

I have decided to have a forty day vigil to pray for all of you grieving. God hears your cry and only he can bring comfort. His grace is sufficient for each of you.

Those men laid down their lives to protect others, but Christ laid down his life that we (all) have salvation for eternity.

May God bless each of you to comfort each other and feel the prayers of Christians all over the countryside to give you peace.

May God enable Brendan McDorough to find peace in the loss he must feel. God loves you all.

Write if you have other requests.

Louise J Mishler

P.S. Praying for those losing their homes.
