The Honorable Janet Napolitano, Governor

The Honorable Timothy Bee, President of the Senate

The Honorable James P. Weirs, Speaker of the House of Representatives

Ms. Michelle Reilly, State Documents Librarian, AZ Library, Archives, and Public Records

I have the honor of submitting the first annual report on the Early Graduation Scholarship Grant (EGSG) Program on behalf of the Arizona Commission for Postsecondary Education (ACPE). This non-need based grant is intended to act as an incentive for high school students to graduate early and promptly transition into a postsecondary education experience. This report includes information on the first partial year of Grant administration (September 17, 2007 to June 30, 2008) and a progress report on the administration of the Program since the end of the 2008 fiscal year. Challenges facing the effective administration of the program are also addressed within the report.

The first partial year of planning and initial program development occurred in FY 2007-2008 and resulted in 41 scholarship awards. The funds to administer the program were received in January of 2008 and hiring staff, developing a web-based application, and promotion of the program began after receipt of these resources.

The first quarter of 2008-2009 saw implementation of the first steps of an early awareness communications program and the launch of a web-based application system. The objectives of these initiatives are (1) to inform students and families so they can plan student course schedules in order to benefit from the scholarship and (2) to make the application process as easy and efficient as possible for students and their families.

The Arizona Grants website www.azgrants.gov represents a single portal for students and families to access and apply for five separate State grants. The result of EGSG being added to this portal was 212 EGSG applications over a three month time period.

The staff members of the ACPE are dedicated to continuous improvement of the Early Graduation Scholarship Grant Program through effective and efficient processes and measurement of outcomes. The ACPE staff look forward to fully developing this pathway to aid students seeking a postsecondary education experience for the benefit of Arizona's educated workforce.

Respectfully Submitted,

The Arizona Commission for Postsecondary Education (ACPE)
Early Graduation Scholarship Grant (EGSG) Program
2007- 2008 Annual Report

Submitted November 30, 2008
Dr. April L. Osborn, Executive Director

Introduction and Description of the Scholarship

On September 17, 2007, a new legislative mandate titled the Early Graduation Scholarship Grant (EGSG) Program went into effect. This report includes information on the first partial year (September 17, 2007 to June 30, 2008) of Grant administration and a progress report on the administration of the Program since the end of the 2008 fiscal year. As requested in statute this report includes information on the number of early graduates, the number of scholarships provided to the students, where the students enrolled, and an administrative cost breakout for the Program.

This non-need based grant is intended to act as an incentive for high school students to graduate early and promptly transition into a postsecondary education experience. High school students that graduate at least one year early and enroll full-time can receive up to $1,250 for their first year and up to $750 for their second year of postsecondary education; those who graduate one semester early and enroll full-time can receive up to $1,000 their first year and up to $500 for their second year. EGSG funds are available to early graduates to attend public/private colleges, universities, community colleges or vocational postsecondary institutions. Students may attend over 100 regionally or nationally accredited institutions in the State of Arizona.

Arizona Statute directs the Department of Education (ADE) to provide the Arizona Commission for Postsecondary Education (ACPE) with a list of early graduates with their identifying information, cohort graduation date, early graduation date and high school of graduation. The Statute directs the ACPE to administer the EGSG Program in conjunction with the ADE and to select eligible students each year for participation in the EGSG Program.

Laying the Foundation: September 17, 2007 to June 30, 2008

The EGSG Program went into effect September 2007. Planning for the administration and start up of the Grant began immediately with existing ACPE staff; however, funds were not available to develop a web-based application, hire financial aid professionals or promote the Program to students and families until later. ADE transferred funds into the EGSG fund in January 2008. At that time, staff was hired and an infrastructure was created for the EGSG program. In an effort to quickly make the grant available to students a semi-automatic online application was developed and made available to students January 28, 2008.

Within a few months and with limited opportunity for promotion, the first payments to EGSG students occurred April 8, 2008. The Speaker of the House and Representative Andy Tobin (the sponsor of the EGSG bill) presented the first thirteen students with their grant check in a ceremony at the Capitol. Over the next few months, additional students completed the online application and enrolled in school.

By June 30, 2008 forty-one students were paid their first of four payments for a total of $18,500. The average grant amount for these students was $451.00. The total fiscal year student grant payments reflect just the first of four payments to these students. An additional $41,375 is promised to these students for future payments. Moreover, since students have three years to access EGSG funds and additional students will apply over this time period. Of the forty-one students paid in 2008, forty were one semester early graduates and one student was a one year early graduate. Of the early graduates who received funding, thirty-seven students graduated from a high school district and four students graduated from a charter high school. Of the forty-one early graduates on scholarship, nine went to a university, twenty-eight went to a community college, one enrolled in a private institution, and three students attended a vocational school.

The final Arizona Department of Education Count of Early Graduates for 2008 which was received by the ACPE on October 2, 2008 shows a total of 2,569 students graduated early; between September 17, 2007 and June 30, 2008. Of those that graduated early, 1,651 students were reported as one semester early graduates and 918 students were reported as one year early graduates. The final Arizona Department of Education Count of SAIS ID Early Graduates report for 2008 is attached to this narrative which is broken down by district and high school.

The balance in the Early Graduation Scholarship Grant fund as of June 30, 2008 was $3,135,817.00. These grant funds are being held for three years awaiting application from the early graduates who graduated after September 17, 2007.

Administrative Costs

Following the receipt of funds in January the Commission hired two employees to administer the Program, develop the student web portal for a single point of entry for application, and promote the program to students, families, and educators. The Commission is allotted 5% of the program funds for general administration. As of June 30, 2008 the Commission spent $70,294 on general administration and start up costs. The administrative costs the fiscal year 07-08 are as follows:

Personal Services and Employee Related Expenses (Student Financial Aid Director and an Associate)	$52,487
Professional and Outside Services (Website Programming Application)	$ 7,831
Other Operating Expenses (Rent, printing, advertising, office supplies, Postage and telephones)	$ 7,164
Technology (Two computers for new staff)	$ 2,812
Total	$70,294

Building the Program: Infrastructure and Awareness

In the 2008 Legislative session two statutory changes were made to the Program. First, was the removal of the promissory note. It was replaced with additional accountability measures such as administering the funds in four payments each after confirmation of Satisfactory Academic Progress and student class attendance. The second change allowed the Commission staff to gather cost of attendance information at the time of institutional verification. These changes to the EGSG Program have contributed to streamlining the application process, and thereby providing fewer deterrents to students to access funds.

Since the end of the 2008 fiscal year, the Commission has focused on two objectives: (1) building the infrastructure and (2) promoting the EGSG Program to target groups. Central to the infrastructure was implementing an easy and efficient application process for students. The EGSG application process has been streamlined into a fully automated online student portal creating more efficiency. This online grant system serves two functions. First, it allows students to apply for any of the five State grants with one single application. All student grant data is collected on one single application and matched with the student's federal financial aid application ensuring students are considered for all possible financial assistance. Second, the institution is able to access the website to provide the ACPE with needed information such as attendance, cost of attendance, and satisfactory academic progress. Since the information is all collected and shared online, the grant awarding process is much quicker, and there is less chance of error. Students also benefit from the online system by having the ability to monitor their grant application online.

The new fully automated online grant application system was launched in August/September 2008 and can be viewed at www.azgrants.gov. Since that time there have been 212 new student applications. These include both one semester and one year early graduates. As of November 2008, a total of $37,596 has been paid to 68 new students. The Commission has to hold funds for the early graduates for three years. An additional $84,500 is promised to these awarded students for future payments in following semesters.

The second objective or area of focus is raising the awareness/promotion of the EGSG Program. Since the ACPE does not have access to names and contact information for the early graduates or families, the bulk of communication is sent to those who work with and influence the early graduates. The ACPE staff has expanded the communication and promotion of the Program to influential stakeholders including: high school counselors/administrators, admissions, outreach and financial aid professionals at Arizona postsecondary institutions, college access programs and members of the community. Emphasis is placed on building partnerships with professionals who can identify and educate potential early graduates of the Program. One method implemented is a bi-weekly email communication sent to all high school counselors. The staff has also provided Program information for the high school websites and financial aid nights. In addition, regular email communications are also sent to admissions/outreach and financial aid professionals at the postsecondary institutions regarding the EGSG Program.

A long term goal is to reach students in middle school so that they can plan to graduate early. Students live in an online world. The ACPE has created accounts for the EGSG Program in MySpace and Face Book in an effort to target students. These online social networks will allow students to view Program information, and reach ACPE staff through social networks online. ACPE staff continues to explore other online promotion avenues to reach the students such as i-TunesU.

The administration of the EGSG program is challenging in several ways. First, ACPE is unable to access the names and addresses of the early graduates. Therefore, ACPE cannot directly communicate with the students and families regarding the Program. Second, because the early graduates names and contact information is unknown the ACPE cannot account for funds by student, making financial predications and fund accountability challenging. Third, ADE informs the ACPE that reports from the SAIS system can be modified as long as to two years after a student graduates, making it difficult to rely on the validity of the data.

The EGSG Grant has potential to serve large numbers of students and increase participation in postsecondary education. Promotion and administration of this grant for a full year (2008-2009) will allow the Commission to begin to assess the potential impact of this new financial assistance program to the State. The mission of the Arizona Commission for Postsecondary Education is expanding access and increasing success in postsecondary education for Arizonans. The Commissioners and staff continue to work to find new and inventive ways to reach the Arizona early graduates and those who influence them. This EGSG Program represents a new pathway to higher education that can be very valuable to the State and its future educated workforce.
